Scene 6: Housewives in the Bakinghouse	Im Backhaus
Hilde: I really don't know how to get good flour anymore.	Nahaufnahme
Katharina: My problem is, I don't know how to get enough flour. My Willy had such a bad harvest this year.
Hilde: It's only because our Werner went to work in that big factory in Cologne. He only comes home once a month, sometimes less. With our farm and his money we just manage.	Die Frauen hantieren mit dem Brot, machen Ofentür auf, schauen, stochern etwas, machen die Theke sauber etc.
Elisabeth: We just lost a plot of our land because the landlord took it away. The tax collector came and I didn't have enough money to give him. He warned me.
Gertrud: Oh that bad man! He wanted 60 Thaler last time He came to my mother's house. Listen, do you want to know a secret?
All: Yes, what?
Gertrud: Well, I wrote to the address in the ad in the paper about becoming a maid in America.
All: Really? What happened?	Totale
Gertrud: Nothing yet. I'm waiting for an answer.
Katharina: Oh, how exciting!
Gertrud: America - the land of freedom and fortune, where the fields stretch as far as the eye can see - and farther. Where there's wilderness with wild animals and where a man can have land as much as he wants.
Hilde: But so far away. Unknown wild animals, bears, lions I've heard. And the Indians! Uhh! How dangerous.
Katharina: But what an adventure! Gertrud, you really shouldn't leave alone. Hilde is right, it could be very dangerous for you there.	Zu Gertrud
Gertrud: I must leave for America. I can feel it in my heart.	Gertrud dreht sich um. Dann zu Katharina
Gertrud: Just think it over. I'm sure you wouldn't have as many problems in America. I'd really like to have you with me.	Nahaufnahme: Katharina denkt nickend nach.
Katharina: Perhaps
